

This plaque is mounted on the south side of St. Stanislaus Kostka church, 1351 W. Evergreen Avenue, Chicago, IL. There is a stone monument lying on the ground in front of it. The plaque honors 842 members of the parish who served in World War I. The transcription of the plaque was done by Victoria Granacki, June 2019. (Note, not all Polish diacritical marks may have been included.)

Post-military service information was found for the following persons in Poles of Chicago 1837-1937 published by Polish Pageant, Inc. Chicago, IL 1937. It's not always possible to confirm if the person mentioned in the book is the same person on the St. Stanislaus World War I plaque.

Rev. Stephen Bubacz, pastor of Old St. Stephens Church [near Grand west of Milwaukee; demolished 1952]

Dr. Edward Dombrowski, Superintendent Chicago State Hospital; member White Eagles basketball team.

Marian Gutkowski, operatic performer at Holy Trinity church under organist, Anthony Mallek

Stanley H. Halick (Stanislaus Halik?) Illinois State Representative

Joseph Jablonski, graphic artist, Polish Arts Club

Stanislaus Kempara, organized Adam Mieckiewicz Dramatic Circle 1920-34 in Bridgeport

Stanley Klarkowski (Stanislaus), circuit court judge

Rev. Francis Kulinski, priest at St. Salomea, 11816 Indiana Avenue [now Salem Baptist Church of Chicago]

John M. Nowicki, (John Nowicki or John Nowicki 2?) Chicago alderman in 1900s; Illinois state senator, two terms

Joseph P. Rostenkowski, Chicago alderman 32nd ward

Edward S. Scheffler, municipal court judge
